Jim Lois and Penny Tinder practice one of the Hawaiian tunes they'll be singing Thursday and Friday in the annual Joliet Junior College spring musical. The program, "Aloha," will be given at 8:15 p.m. in the JTHS gym. The first half of the show will feature choral work and dancing. The second part of the program will star a swing band playing music arranged especially for the show.

DON'T MISS IT!

JJC Choir, Swing Band Set Program

The Joliet Junior College choir and swing band will present their annual spring musical, Aloha, at 8:15 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Doctor Hal Dellinger will direct the two organizations in their respective portions of the program. The band, which will be featured in the second act, will do, among other numbers, a special arrangement by Robert Anderson of Chicago called "The Hawaiian Medley." Doctor Dellinger, who has been doing these shows for a number of years, commented that "Aloha" will take its place among the best shows produced by the Junior College.

Miss Vera Thalrose, a nationally known choreographer and an instructor at the college, has incorporated into the show native dances and costumes which she saw while she studied at the University of Hawaii last summer. In keeping with the native custom, Miss Thalrose has arranged to have artificial leis presented to all women coming to see the show.

The stage design was conceived by Art Corrigan, a local architect and part-time JJC student, and took shape under the masterful hand of Dan McCarter, a dramatics instructor at JJC and a specialist in set construction. The Polynesian theme was carried out by using Tiki torches silhouetted against a moonlit sky. The overall effect is breath-taking. As one college student put it: "If I ever go to Hawaii and it doesn't look like that set, I'll return mighty disappointed."

Tickets can be obtained through any member of the college choir or band or at the door of the auditorium for $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for any student.
